Company L Leaves for Niantic.

A considerable number witnessed the departure of Company L of this city for the camp grounds at Niantic, Saturday morning. The soldier boys left the armory at 7.20 and marched across the footbridge to the station, where they entrained on the 7.40 C. V. southbound, transferring at New London for Niantic. Everybody arrived shipshape at the camp, and the first day found things going smoothly, with no mishaps. There are many Willimantic people at Niantic, and the boys soon found friends for their spare moments.

Windham County Campaign of Suffrage Workers Has Proved Most Successful.

The campaign of the Connecticut Woman Suffrage association through Windham county, just completing, was stated Saturday by Miss Emily Pierson, state organizer, and Miss Ethel Lee Rankin, press agent, to have been productive of a great deal of good for the cause which they represent.

In the neighborhood of ten thousand have heard the speeches of the carnest young women who have been touring the county by automobile, and the percentage of those who signed their circulated petitions was very encouraging. Everywhere the speakers talked to crowded halls and their listeners' interest was shown by frequent questions.

The following new books have been added to the files at the public library: Silent Sam, From an Island Outpost, William County Sand, Hoosier Volunteer, Sandy, Son of the Agea, Ariadne of Allen Water. Deputy Sheriff George Bliven recosered the machine in Moosup, where it had been taken by the young man who stole it, and for whom the police are looking. Late Friday night it was learned that the machine had been taken by the thief to a garage in Moosup, that he might have some adjustments made to it, as he had early succeeded in getting the motor so it would not run.

succeeded in getting the motor so it would not run.

The garage people supplied Mr. Kennedy with the information as to who had the machine and, getting Sheriff Bliven, the owner went to Moosup. In the Prospect street section, where the young man lived, so much noise was made in arousing the sleeping household that the young man who stole the machine sensed that he was in for trouble and escaped by jumping out a second story window.

Saturday morning the machine was recovered in the woodshed of a neighbor, where the fellow who had taken it stored it for the night. It was somewhat damaged, one pedal being broken off. The carouretor was out of adjustment and it was for this reason that the thief, who is not familiar with the operation of the machine, could not start the motor.

The cell door was unlocked and the physician immediately found that Metthe was done for. The body was still warm and the indications were that the man had been dead about an hour. Dr. Burroughs found that the man's neck was broken, the result of the first tug of the blanket rope around his neck. After he had pulled his feet up from the floor and allowed his whole weight to pull down on the slipknot on his neck. The man's countenance showed some sign of a struggle, but that his death was very quiet is indicated by the fact that the men in the adjeining cell were not aware that their comcell were not aware that their com-panion had killed himself. The body was given in charge of L. E. Kennedy. The dead man has a sister here and is said to have a brother in Norwich and another in Plainfield.
